Iron Gates on Nantao-French Concession Borders

On the morning of August 8, the iron gates on the South End of Boulevard de Montigny and Rue Chateau d'Eau were reopened. The other iron gates on the Nantao-French Concession borders, however, remain close, as searches are still being conducted in the refugee zone of Nantao by City Government policemen.

At noon on August 7, the following notice issued by Col. Loo Ying, Chief of the Police Bureau of the Shanghai Special Municipality, was posted on the various thoroughfares in Nantao :-

"Owing to the occurrence of an unfortunate incident in the city district, the authorities have been compelled to close the iron gates for a number of days, thus causing certain inconvenience to the residents of Nantao. However, the residents should also shoulder some responsibility. If persons are observed acting in a suspicious manner, the residents should immediately report to the police bureau so that investigations may be carried out and recurrence of unfortunate incidents prevented.

Should any such unfortunate incident take place again, the iron gates will likely be closed for a long period. It is therefore hoped that assistance will be rendered by the residents."

Japanese Search For Escaped Terrorists

Nantao Closed As Nine Alleged Chungking
Terrorists Break Prison; Five Agents
Executed In Western District

The Japanese Gendarmerie and Nanking controlled City Government Police Forces at Nantao were still searching today for the nine alleged Chungking terrorists who made good their escape from a Nantao prison yesterday, the Evening Post learned from reliable sources today.

Following the prison break early yesterday morning, an intensive search throughout Nantao City was carried out by the joint forces of the Japanese Gendarmerie and Chinese constables of the City Government Police there. All gates, except one from the French Concession leading to Nantao were closed by the French Municipal Police in a measure to aid their search.

Results Unknown

The results of the intensified search were not disclosed today by either the Japanese authorities in Nantao, but usually well informed quarters said that all the nine alleged Chungking terrorists were still at large.

All persons trying to enter Nantao today were subjected to a severe search along the gates by Chinese constables of the City Government Police Force, it was learned.

Murder Rumored

Earlier reports said that a Korean was shot somewhere in Nantao and the intensified search was the result of this murder, it will be recalled. This alleged murder could not be confirmed from responsible quarters this morning.

All the nine escaped Chungking terrorists were arrested two weeks ago in different places in Nantao and the Western areas of Shanghai, it was said.

Execution Carried Out

Meanwhile another public execution was witnessed by many Chinese residents along Chung San Road, off Brennan Road, as five Chungking agents were executed by the Political Police Bureau of the Nanking Regime late yesterday afternoon.

The five alleged Chungking terrorists were executed on charge of the Nanking promulgated Martial Laws, it was reported by the Nanking sponsored papers this morning.

Blue Shirt Men

Among the five persons were two members of the Blue Shirts, generally regarded as Chungking's secret service organization, it was said.

The chief of the Intelligence Department of Chungking's Special Activities Bureau in Shanghai, Li Sze-ping, was also executed, the papers said.

Usurious pawnshops in Nantao and Western District

With reference to the attached article from the January 13th issue of the Evening Echo on the subject "Usurious pawnshops ordered closed by local Government Bureau", enquiries have been made with the following result:-

On January 17, twenty-three of some 80 pawnshops located in the Old West Gate area in Nantao received a circular notice from the Bureau of Social Affairs, through the Nantao Administrative Office(50 Ih Soh Ka, Boon Lai Road, Nantao), instructing them to close their businesses by the end of the current month because of the usurious interest charged and limiting the term of loans to one month. The order further requires the pawnshops to allow the pledgers to redeem their property within six months from the date of closure at a monthly interest of 3%.

The Bureau of Social Affairs, however, has not yet taken any action against the many "open air pawnshops" (stalls) operating on open spaces near the gambling dens in Nantao and the Western District, O.O.L. These "pawnshops" charge an interest of 30% for ten days, and confiscate the articles pledged if they are not redeemed within that period. The pawn receipts can also be pawned at the same rate of interest. The owners of such "pawnshops", which are patronized by gamblers only, are loafers mostly having connections with the Japanese Gendarmerie stationed in the districts concerned. It will be difficult for the Shanghai City Government to suppress them in view of the fact that the gambling dens in Nantao are still operating despite Mayor Chen Kung Po's order for their suppression.

Made by: D.I. Tan Lien-pih

Forwarded by: D.I. Crawford

The strike of some 9,000 public ricksha coolies in Nantao declared on October 7, 1940 in consequence of an increase of 10 cents in the rates for renting, was settled as a result of the mediation undertaken on October 25 by Mr. SUNG SZ CHING (沈世景), Chief of the Nantao District Administrative Office. The rate for renting a public ricksha has now been increased to 55 cents per day (an increase of 5 cents instead of 10 cents as originally announced by the owners).

All the public rickshas numbering some 8,000, are plying on the streets in Nantao this morning, October 26, 1940.

SACG

On the morning of October 7, 1940, some 9,000 public ricscha coolies in Nantao declared a strike to protest against the recent increase of 10 cents in the rates for renting which was announced by the owners as effective from October 1, 1940.

The daily rental for public ricschas was formerly 50 cents and the recent increase of 10 cents, it is learned, is because all public ricscha owners have been recently compelled to join the Nantao Public Ricscha Owners' Association (南市人力車業同業公會), No. 60 Ying Hsuen Road, Small West Gate, Nantao, which was reorganized from the former Nantao Ricscha Corporation (南市人力車公司組合). The members of the association are required to pay a monthly membership fee of $4.00 towards the upkeep of the association which has several Japanese subjects as executives.

There were 8,000 public ricschas in operation in Nantao but following the strike only 500 public ricschas were on the streets, which are being pulled by their respective owners.

Subject. Nantao Ricshe Corporation - formation

Made by D. I. Fan Lien Fih Forwarded by D. I. Crawford

A new organisation known as the "Nantao Ricshe Corporation (南市人力車公司組)" came into existence during the early part of June, 1940 with offices at 65 Ning Shiang Road (寧鄉路), Small West Gate, Nantao.

The corporation was formed, with the object of creating a monopoly, by YU DA CHING (于達清), with the sanction of the Japanese Consulate and the Japanese Military Authorities stationed in Nantao. Yu was a Standing Committee member of the now defunct "Nantao Ricshe Owners' Association" which operated in 1937 and owns 100 ricshe.

A notice instructing all ricshe owners in the district to join this corporation by June 15, 1940, has been posted outside the office. On joining the corporation, the ricshe owner has to pay 50 cents for a puller's badge, bearing a number the same as that of the licence of the ricshe and another $2 for a jacket to be worn by the puller.

The corporation has now announced that an increase, effective from June 16, 1940, will be enforced for the ricshe hire charges from 40 cents to 60 cents per ricshe per day. 10 cents of the increase which amounts to 20 cents, must be paid to the corporation while the remaining 10 cents will be retained by the owner.

Between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. June 15, 1940, a meeting took place in the offices of the corporation between the management of the corporation and Mr. SUNG SING FU (沈心撫), representing the small owners and of the pullers, and the Chairman of the Nanteo Branch of the "Chinese Labourers' Welfare Association" (Japanese sponsored), when it was agreed to increase the ricksha hire charges by 10 cents only with effect from June 16, 1940 which will be equally shared by the owners and the corporation.

No progress has been made with the above projects with the exception of the first mentioned one which is being carried out. "Hwo Wei" Lottery is still rife in Nantao.

Because of a fear of being attacked by other organizations functioning in the Nantao District, the "Nantao Citizens' Federation", prior to its formation, approached the Japanese Special Service Section, Nantao Branch, and requested their support. A notice to this effect was posted outside the premises on the same day.

Since their dismissal, the dismissed workers have held meetings in the offices of the Nantao Branch of the Chinese Labourers' Welfare Association, Lane 82/1 Tsing Lien Ka, near Kiu Mow Di, Nantao and have requested SUNG SING FU (沈心復), i/c of the said association, to assist in their reinstatement.

SUNG SING FU knows very well that the Kiousin Dock will not listen to such a demand and, as a temporary relief measure, he has ordered the workers now operating at the dock, totalling some 500, to contribute a monthly subsidy of $1 each towards a fund for the maintenance of the dismissed workers. He further ordered that contributions as from July 29 must be paid through the offices of the Association.

According to information obtained at French Police Headquarters, on June 28, 1939, Mr. LADROITTE, Manager of Cie Fse de Tramways, which Company is also owner of the French Water Works, was informed of the incident but did not take a serious view of the matter merely suggesting that the Japanese authorities should be informed that they should obtain permission from the Company before visiting the Water Works. Two passes, one to the Japanese Naval Landing Party and one to the Japanese Gendarmerie, have since been issued by the Company, authorizing visits by the Japanese authorities.

According to the French Police, the purpose of the Japanese visit was in order to ascertain if there were any French marines posted in the Water Works but no French details were present.

The French Water Works are situated in Nantao about one mile from the boundary of the French Concession but owing to traffic restrictions in force in Nantao, a detour has to be made in order to reach the Water Works which makes the journey one of slightly more than two miles. Officials of the French Water Works are permitted to travel without interference between the Concession and the Water Works. With the exception of 2,000,000 galls. of water per day which the Shanghai Water Works Co. has been supplying to the French Concession since over five years, the French Water Works is responsible for the whole of the French Concession supply, exclusive of that supplied by artesian wells. The main connection from the Settlement is located at Hart Road and Avenue Foch intersection. In addition to the main connection there are eight connections located along Avenue Foch and Avenue Edward VII, which can be used to supply water from the Settlement to the French Concession or vice versa in case of an emergency, but in such an event the supply would have to be restricted to that required by absolute necessity.

The French Water Works have no protection other than that afforded by the presence of a French gunboat which is usually berthed alongside the Kioussin Dock which adjoins the French Water Works.

Translation of French Police Report No. 4132/S dated 13-6-39

At 2 p.m., June 11, two unarmed Japanese soldiers presented themselves at the Nantao Waterworks of the French Tramway Company (Avenue de Bezaure, Nantao), with the object of inspecting the premises. As they were in possession of no documents, they were refused admittance by the foreign employee on duty. The two soldiers withdrew but returned an hour later accompanied by an officer who insisted on inspecting the works.

The foreigner on duty finally gave way. The officer withdrew after the visit which lasted about half-an-hour, stating that he was satisfied there were no more French marines on the premises.

During the course of a conversation with Mr. LADROITTE, of the French Tramways, the latter informed me that the Company was not opposed in principle to these visits, but that it would be preferable if the Japanese officers proceeding to the Works carried a permit which the Company is quite ready to issue. S.I. YANKOVSKY will approach the Japanese Military Authorities in Nantao to learn to whom the written permit should be given.

Subject French Water Works on Ki Tchan Ka, Nantao - visited by the Japanese.

Made by Forwarded by

It is reported that at about 2.30 p.m. on June 11, 1939, a junior officer of the Japanese Military together with a private called at the French Water Works on Ki Tchan Ka, Nantao and requested permission to enter the premises. They were told by a French employee of the Company that no admission was permitted to outsiders and that a signboard in Chinese and Japanese to this effect was displayed outside the main entrance of the Company, whereupon they left. About an hour later, a Japanese military truck arrived with more than twenty Japanese soldiers under two officers who were fully armed and carried two machine guns. The party alighted and immediately forced an entry into the premises of the Water Works. They remained on the premises for about three quarters of an hour, visiting the various departments of the Water Works and then departed without incident.

In consequence of this forcible visit by the Japanese Military, a rumour is in circulation in the City to the effect that the water supply for the French Concession will be cut off should an emergency arise in the Foreign controlled areas.

Subject French Water Works on Ki Tchan Ka, Nantao - visited by the Japanese

Made by D.I. Pan Lien Pih

Forwarded by

It is reported that at about 2.30 p.m. on June 11, 1939, a junior officer of the Japanese Military together with a private called at the French Water Works on Ki Tchan Ka, Nantao and requested permission to enter the premises. They were told by a French employee of the company that no admission was permitted to outsiders and that a signboard in Chinese and Japanese to this effect was displayed outside the main entrance of the company, whereupon they left. About an hour later, a Japanese military truck arrived with more than twenty Japanese soldiers under two officers who were fully armed and carried two machine guns. The party alighted and immediately forced an entry into the premises of the Water Works. They remained on the premises for about three quarters of an hour, visiting the various departments of the Water Works and then departed without incident.

In consequence of this forcible visit by the Japanese Military, a rumour is in circulation in the City to the effect that the water supply for the French Concession will be cut off should an emergency arise in the Foreign controlled areas.

National Reconstruction Army

Some 100 soldiers under the command of Chen Zung (陳宗) of the 1st Company of the Asia Rehabilitation and National Reconstruction Army, No. 19, Lee Yen Ko Ka, Nantao, have recently been disbanded by the Japanese Military Authorities.

The cause of the disbandment of Chen's army, it is reported, is due to the fact that Chen has been in contact with Zee Hoong Fah (徐鴻發), an ex-guerilla leader who operated in Pootung and who surrendered to the Japanese during 1939. In December, 1940, Zee Hoong Fah's men committed several robberies in Pootung, which became known to the Japanese Military Authorities who immediately sent four Japanese officials and a Chinese interpreter to make investigations among Zee Hoong Fah's detachment.

Upon their arrival, two of the Japanese officials and the Chinese interpreter were killed by Zee's subordinates. This action on the part of Zee's men aroused the anger of the Japanese authorities, who immediately despatched soldiers to arrest Zee Hoong Fah and his men, but they scattered and are in hiding in Pootung.

Zee Hoong Fah approached Koo Yu Sung (顧裕聲) who was formerly an interpreter in the employ of the Japanese Special Service, to bribe Chen Zung with $40,000 if Chen Zung would recommend Zee for the post of Vice Commander of the 1st Company of the Asia Rehabilitation and National

The 1,400 Japanese and 600 Chinese troops, who arrived in Nantao and vicinity on June 16 and whose object, it is rumoured, is to bring pressure to bear with a view to effecting the retrocession of the Catholic Church area at Zikawei, were transferred to some unknown destination during the night of June 21/22.

It has been confidentially learned that the French Concession authorities have reached an understanding with the Japanese authorities regarding the Catholic Church area but particulars are unknown. This is borne out by the fact that at 10.15 a.m., June 22, three armed Japanese Military Police entered the Chiao Tung University from Loh Ka Loo, O.O.L., via Avenue Haig, and at 10.45 a.m., they left the University and proceeded along Hungjao Road to the Catholic Church area, without interference and escort from the French Authorities.

Japanese Deny Reports
Of Manchoukuo Troops
Being In Nantao

Japanese military authorities in Shanghai yesterday categorically dismissed as "ridiculous" a report attributed to Chinese press sources printed by an English-language morning daily to the effect that "9,000 Formosan and Manchoukuo troops" were now stationed in Nantao on the southeastern limits of the French Concession.

Manchoukuo troops, a Japanese military spokesman declared, are not being used outside of the borders of their own Empire.

"As to Formosan effectives," the spokesman declared, "there are no such troops in the Japanese Army. Formosan subjects are not subject to conscription and consequently cannot serve in the Japanese Army."

The spokesman pointed out that it was only recently that Japanese subjects of Korean extraction were being permitted to enlist in the Japanese Army as volunteers, as they also were not subject to military service. Only about 2,000 such volunteers had been accepted so far and these were still undergoing training in Chosen, the spokesman pointed out.

FORMOSAN AND MANCHUKUOAN SOLDIERS IN NANTAO AND HONGKEW

On December 7 and 8, more than 9,000 Formosan and Manchukuoan soldiers were transferred to Nantao from Wuhu. The new arrivals were accommodated in schools and guilds in Nantao. The soldiers wear shabby uniforms and they seem to be in bad need of winter necessities. During the night of December 7 and 8, three Manchukuoan soldiers dashed into some houses in the vicinity of a Police outpost at Great East Gate, Nantao, and asked for blankets but when the inmates refused to give anything to the intruders, the latter stabbed an old housekeeper to death.

These soldiers constitute a direct menace to peace and order in Nantao and the residents are now devising ways and means to ensure their safety. It is further learned that several foreign style buildings which had escaped damage during the war have been prepared for the accommodation of several tens of thousands of Japanese soldiers who will be transferred to Nantao in the course of the next few days. During the past two days, approximately 3,000 Manchukuoan and Formosan soldiers have arrived in Hongkew.

Subject. Manchukuo troops arrived at Wantao.

Made by S.1. Pan Lien-pih, Forwarded by S.1. Crawford.

About 12,000 Manchukuo troops were transferred to Shanghai from Wuhu by the Japanese Military Authorities on December 7 and 8th, 1939. 3,000 are stationed in Civic Centre (Niangwan), and the remaining 9,000 are stationed at the following places in Wantao:-

- (1) St. Joseph's Institute for the Poor (Sing Poo Yoh Jaung 新普育堂), Kuo Foo (國貨路) Road.
- (2) In dwelling houses at Tan Pu Jao (打浦橋), near the south end of Rue Pere Robert.
- (3) Former building of the Woosung-Shanghai Constabulary, Ching Joh Road (警局路), near Small South Gate.
- (4) Lung Men Villa (龍門邨), Boon Lai Road (Small West Gate).
- (5) Hunan Guild (湖南會館), Arsenal Road.
- (6) Wei Ming (徽商會館) Guild, Arsenal Road.

These troops are natives of Manchuria and wear uniforms similar to those of the Japanese Army. The officers are Japanese and Formosans. The discipline among the troops is very lax, and upon arrival they searched for cotton quilts in the residences near where they were quartered causing a panic among the Wantao population.

According to information from a usually reliable source, a total of some 90,000 Manchukuo troops are to be concentrated in Wantao before December 15, 1939 the idea behind this being to intimidate the French Authorities and so accelerate the negotiations

The supply of rice in Nantao is monopolized by the Nantao Ming Sung Rice and Paddy Association, 377 Min Kuo Road, Nantao, which was formed in March, 1940. This Association is sponsored principally by the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha and Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha, which firms are the agents permitted by the Japanese authorities to purchase rice in the producing areas.

The Association at present distributes a total of some 70 bags of rice (See Mee), a total of 7 tons, to rice shops in Nantao every day. There is a stock of approximately 500 bags stored on the Association premises. The Association obtains its supplies from rice stored in Japanese godowns in Hongkew.

Rice shops purchasing supplies from the Association must first deposit with the Association a minimum sum of Yen 500, and each shop receives a quantity of rice equivalent to 90% of the value of deposits.

Although according to the regulations of the Association, purchases of rice are not permitted from sources other than the Association, the rice shops are at present permitted to buy rice from farmers bringing the grain from suburban cities. Purchases are also made from dealers in

On May 5, the Nantao Ming Sung Rice and Paddy Association, 377 Min Kuo Road, Nantao, issued to the rice shops in Nantao a circular notice which states :-

"Henceforth, rice shops in Nantao, intending purchasing rice from the association, must first deposit with the association a minimum sum of Yen 200 as security to cover purchases. A rice shop may then purchase 2 bags of rice from the association. If additional bags of rice are required, an additional sum of Yen 100 per bag will be required as coverage. A rice shop may not be required to deposit further security when applying for further purchases should the balance from the previous transactions amount to Yen 200."

The adoption of this new measure by the association has aroused indignation among the proprietors of rice shops in Nantao who are mostly of the poorer class tradesmen.

At 9 a.m. May 7, some 50 representatives of the rice shops in Nantao appealed to the Nantao District Administrative Office and the Liaison Department of the Japanese Military stationed in Nantao, both located at Ih Soh Ka, Boon Lai Road, Nantao, to assist them and the authorities promised to enter into negotiations

The Nantao Ming Sung Rice and Paddy Association (南市民生米穀公會) came into existence on March 15, 1940, with an office on the former premises of the Chinese Flour Exchange, 377 Min Kuo Road, Nantao. The Association was sponsored jointly by the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha and Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha, with permission from the Special Service Section of the Japanese Military.

Pan Seu Zung (潘守仁), owner of the Kung Ping (公平) Rice Shop, 4655 Robison Road, who is believed to have been on intimate terms with the Japanese ever since the January 28 Incident of 1932, is also interested in the formation of this Association. Pan Seu Zung is at present in Hongkong but has appointed one Zau Lien Sung (趙連生), ex-C.P.C. of the French Police, follower of Doo Yueh Sung and notorious loafer in the French Concession, to handle his affairs in Shanghai. Zau is also connected with gambling dens in the Western District and has amassed a large fortune from this source.

Following its inauguration on March 15, the promoters invited Chang Ping Sz (張彬如), owner of Doong Shing (鳳鑫) Rice Shop, 116-8 Loo Shiang Yuen Road, and Chairman of the Nantao Chamber of Commerce, and Yu Ching Wu (于經武).

The Association aims at monopolizing the supply and sale of rice in the Nantao area and has a capital in the region of from $2,500,000 to $5,000,000.

The Association will obtain supplies of rice from the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha and Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha who are the principal agents permitted by the Japanese authorities to purchase rice in the producing areas. It will be responsible for the distribution of rice to rice shops in Nantao for retail and the shops will not be permitted to purchase supplies from any other source. Apart from the supply of rice to shops, the Association will also fix a price for all shops in Nantao. The shops must also exhibit outside their premises a white cloth banner bearing the title of the Association and these will be sold at $0.80 each.

For instance, when a rice shop obtains 100 "zars" of rice from the Association at the price of $40.00 per "zar", it must pay a lump sum of $4,000.00 at time of purchase. The shop will be required to sell the rice at the price at which it is bought, but on the completion of the sale of 100 "zars", the shop will receive a commission of $50.00 from the Association. This is the only profit to which the rice shop will be entitled.

Any shop which is found to have quoted prices higher or lower than the price stipulated, and/or purchase rice from other sources than the Association, will be cautioned on the first occasion, fined on the second occasion and ordered to suspend business on the third occasion.

Rice shops in Nantao, numbering approximately 120 in all, have been induced to promise support for the movement, but so far only about 10% have actually joined in it. Through these shops, the Association at present disposes off some 80 "zars" of rice every day, which is removed to Nantao from Japanese owned godowns in Hongkew via Chapel and Chungshan Road. The Association at present adopts an indifferent attitude towards the rice shops which are not co-operating with it.

It is confidentially learned that the Association is now applying to the New Central Government and the ~~the~~ Asia Development Board for permission to operate. Pending the receipt of this

Made by D.I. Pan Lien Pih Forwarded by Supt. J. Mason

On March 18, 1940, two truck loads of rice belonging the International Relief Committee, and being transported to the Nantao Refugee Zone for the use of the refugees housed there, were stopped by a Japanese sentry on duty at Rue Chateau d'Eau. Negotiations for the entry of the rice into the refugee zone have been commenced by Rev. Father Jacouinot who is in charge of the zone in question. No success has attended his efforts so far but further efforts are being made.

Some 100 bags of foreign rice are transported daily to the refugee zone by the International Relief Committee but no trouble has ever been experienced before. This incident is believed to be the outcome of the recent formation by Japanese merchants of a Nantao Ming Sung Rice and Paddy Trade Association (南京市民生米穀公會) which has for its object the monopoly of the sale of rice in the Nantao Area.

The Nantao Ming Sung Rice and Paddy Trade Association, with offices at 377 Ming Kuo Road (民國路), Nantao, was formally inaugurated on March 15, 1940. It was formed jointly by the Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha and Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, two Japanese concerns, with the sanction of the

YOUTHS' CORPS TO BE DISBANDED

Since its establishment, the Youths' Corps in Nantao has achieved remarkable results in its work. Some time ago owing to the fact that the place was full of lawless elements, the Corps established a Self-Defence Section at No. 51 Kao Tung Ka Street, Loo Hsiang Yuen Road, Nantao, with Chow Pao-dah (周寶大) as Chief. Its duty was to co-operate with the Police and the military in the maintenance of peace and order in the Refugee Zone. Now order has been restored and the district is gradually moving towards prosperity. Moreover, the police strength of the locality is sufficient to maintain peace and order in the whole district. Consequently, it has been found unnecessary to continue the Self-Defence Section. An order for its disbandment was issued yesterday by the Officer-in-Charge of the Youths' Corps. Captain Zia Ya has been detailed to take over all the documents of the disbanding section.

At 7 p.m., June 30, 1940, the Supervisory Committee of the Nantao Refugee Zone, 235 Fong Fang Road (方路路), Nantao, wound up their affairs. The Supervisory Committee distributed one-month's free rice from the stocks left to the refugees accommodated in the Zone on June 30th, but the refugees when collecting the rice for their meals on that date saw 150 bags of rice stored on the committee premises. The staff at this time were attempting to shift this rice to the Sing Po Yo Tang (新普育堂) Benevolent Institution on Kuo Hoo (國貨) Road, Nantao, when they were prevented by a horde of refugees who stole the rice before it could be transported. The Police in the vicinity took no action.

A number of refugees are still living in the Refugee Zone Area in spite of the dissolution of the above Committee.

The Japanese Military Special Service Section, Nantao Branch and the Shanghai City Government, it is reported, are to take care of those refugees who are definitely infirm, disabled or homeless, when the general liquidation of the other refugees has taken place.

Regarding the "French Refugee Lottery", there will be two or three more drawings the proceeds of which will be allotted to the Nantao Refugee Hospital for its upkeep. This Hospital is sponsored by Father Jacquinot.

Further to Special Branch report dated March 7, 1938 on the above subject, Mr. Pan Tse-chieh (潘志傑), who resigned his position as director of the Nantao Head Office of the International Relief Committee, 235 Fang Fang Road, Nantao, on February 24, and was reinstated on March 23, again resigned in the middle of April, because of the antagonistic attitude adopted toward him by several of the managers of refugee camps under the control of the International Relief Committee. He has now been replaced by Mr. Koo Lung (顧 倫), a returned law student from France.

With a view to preventing the possibility of his reinstatement by Father Jacquinot on his return from abroad, a number of officers in the Nantao Head Office of the International Relief Committee, including Mr. Woo Zing-zung (吳 董 臣), Manager of the 55th Refugee Camp, Mr. Kao meng-chuan (郭 衡 權), Manager of the 81th Refugee Camp, Mr. Tang Dong-kong (唐 桐 崗), Manager of the 102th Refugee Camp, Mr. Hu Sing-pah (胡 衡 伯), Manager of the 146th Refugee Camp and Mr. Huang Meng-doo (黃 夢 陀), Manager of the 179th Refugee Camp, held a meeting at 10 a.m. May 14 in the Nantao Head Office, 235 Fang Fang Road, when they discussed the formation of an association of managers attached to refugee camps. During the course of the meeting, seven former boys employed in the Offices, who were discharged on the resignation of Mr. Pan Tse-chieh, appeared and assaulted the officers. With reference to the attached ~~letter~~ ^{translation} from the Life Daily News and other local newspapers dated February 28, 1938, quoting a "Domei News Agency" report, enquiries have been made and the following information obtained.

Mr. Pan Tse Chieh (潘老傑) was the director and Mr. Tai Chong Ling (戴昌林), associate director of the Nantao Head Office of the International Relief Committee, 235 Pang Road, Nantao, which was formerly occupied by the Nantao Fire Brigade.

Mr. Pan Tse Chieh is a very obstinate and proud man, and there are many instances in which he has ^{had} differences with the other members of the International Relief Committee on questions pertaining to the relief of refugees. Recently Mr. Pan Tse Chieh clashed with the Japanese Military Police in Nantao, over an order issued by them that ten rickshas belonging to the Head Office of the International Relief Committee should have passes issued by the Nantao Police Bureau before being used in the zone. Mr. Pan objected to this new procedure, which was of no avail, and dissatisfied with the state of affairs, Mr. Pan tendered his resignation on February 24. Being a close associate of Mr. Pan and in sympathy with him, Mr. Tai Chong Ling, assistant director of the Nantao Head Office of the International Relief Committee, tendered his resignation also on the same day.

RESIGNATIONS FROM NANTAO REFUGEE RELIEF COMMITTEE

The Domei News Agency supplies the following report:-

On February 24 Messrs. Pan (潘) and Tai (戴) and the Chiefs of the various districts sent in their joint resignation to the Nantao Refugee Relief Committee, which is under charge of Father Jacquinot. They stated that the relief work that is being undertaken by foreigners is of no practical benefit to the Chinese people.

It is possible that the resignation of these people is due to their fear of being implicated in the cases of malfeasance of office committed by certain other members of the Committee who have absconded.

The whereabouts of the resigned Chinese committeemen are unknown. The relief work in the Refugee Zone sponsored by Father Jacquinot has come to a standstill. Efforts are being made by the Committee to secure new committeemen, but the reports circulated regarding the above affairs are deterring people from joining.

HELPING NANTAO

Editor,
THE SHANGHAI TIMES

Sir,—Will you kindly give space to this letter regarding "Good-Will Industries" in Nantao. We have tried out this self-help or employment method of reconstruction in Nantao for three months and find that it fills a very real need. Many Shanghai friends have "Good-Will Bags" in their homes and many have sent gift of money. We hope that these gifts may continue that the work may be developed. At present we are helping about 200 unemployed men and women in the work rooms daily and about 90 more with free distribution of clothing or with small household utensils.

Clothing and household articles are also sold at the "Good-Will" stores at low prices to the very poor who are not working at the "Good-Will" centre. Workers and neighbours alike receive free medical aid at the clinic daily. About $1,000 per month is required to help the work going at the present scale. Routine collection of old clothing and household goods is also necessary to provide work for the workers.

We are now withdrawing from "Good-Will" for furlough but the relief project for the poor beyond the safety zone in Nantao is being carried on by others. Misses Ricketts and Russell, of Hangchow, are working in connection with the work room in the Nantao Christian Institute. Mr. Ralph White, of Soochow, is serving as treasurer.

Will those who wish to help finance this programme of self-help by gifts, memorial cheques, etc., please send them payable to Mr. Ralph White, at 169 Yuen Ming Yuen Road.

We wish to express our appreciation of the interest in and support given by the many who have helped to establish "Good-Will Industries" in Shanghai as this has made possible far more help toward regarding a livelihood than one can realize for these hundreds in great need.

MR. AND MRS. WILMOT D. BOONE

On the morning of August 14, 1939, copies of a notification were posted by the Bureau of Finance of the Shanghai City Government, signed by Tseu Yui Zang (周友常), the Commissioner, at the entrances to the collecting offices in Nantao and Pootung, notifying the residents that payment of all taxes, bills for light and water etc., must henceforth be made in "Hwa Shing" banknotes or their equivalent in legal tender notes, effective from this date. It is learned that on August 14, 1939 the market rate for "Hwa Shing" banknotes was fixed at $1.70 legal tender notes for $1.00 "Hwa Shing" note.

The residents in Nantao and Pootung since the above notification was issued have found themselves unable to comply with the requirements of the authorities and the majority have not made any payments with the result that the Bureau of Finance on the afternoon of August 14, 1939, issued verbal instructions to its collecting offices to have the notification rescinded forthwith and to accept payment from residents in accordance with the value of the legal tender notes as before.

In confirmation of the above verbal instructions, the Bureau of Finance on the morning of August 16, 1939 issued another formal notification in Nantao and Pootung, to the effect that until

The Shanghai City Government has issued a circular order to the Finance Bureau and its various tax offices directing them to use "Hwa Shing" banknotes as from August 14. On the other hand, they will deliberately attempt to lower the value of legal tender notes.

"Hwa Shing" banknotes have not yet been put into circulation in guerrilla districts in the suburbs of Shanghai. The new attack on legal tender notes will not be without difficulty.

Towards the end of April, 1939, the Nantao Traffic Office of the Bureau of Public Utilities of the "Shanghai City Government", Wen Hsiao Road, Nantao, announced that with effect from May 1, 1939, the licence fees for public ricschas would be increased from 50 cents to 80 cents per month. At first, the ricscha owners and their pullers refused to comply with the order, and petitions were addressed to the Bureau of Public Utilities requesting the cancellation of the increase. On their request being rejected, the ricscha owners complied with the order with effect from June 1 but reduced the number of ricschas in operation.

Originally there were altogether some 1,000 ricschas in operation, but now there are approximately 750, the others having been put aside because of the increase in licence fees and lack of business.

During the past few days, certain Chinese have been engaged in collecting copper coins from the Chinese people living in various parts in Nantao, at 200 coppers for $1 (the proper rate should be 300 coppers for $1). It is reported that these persons exchanged the coppers at 160 pieces for $1 from the Japanese.

The Nantao Traffic Office of the "Bureau of Communications" of the "Shanghai City Government" is enforcing an increase from 50 Cents to 80 Cents per month in the public ricsha licence fees as from May 1, 1939. The ricsha pullers and ricsha owners in Nantao are opposing this increase.

There are altogether about 1,000 public ricshas operating in Nantao and some 100 bicycles, the licence fee for which remains at $2.00 per year. Ricshas and bicycles are the only vehicles that are registered with the Nantao Traffic Office. The motor trucks in Nantao are operated by Japanese concerns and controlled by the Japanese Special Service Section and the Nantao Administrative Office.

The Nantao Traffic Office is located on the old site of the Shanghai Girls' Middle School at 293 Wen Miao Road, Nantao. Chow Yung Chi (周雍祺), a native of Shanghai, aged 32, is the Chief of the Office, and has a staff of 15 persons.

With a view to offsetting the financial difficulties experienced by his office, Mr. Sung Sze-ching (沈 書經), Chief of the Nantao Administrative Office of the Shanghai City Government, has instructed Yue Ching-woo (于 經武), Chief of the Third Department of the Nantao Administrative Office, to establish a "Collecting Office for the Road Maintenance Levy" (養路費徵收所) on the ground floor of No. 232 Boulevard Des deux Republiques. With the consent of the Nantao Section of the Japanese Military Special Service Department obtained, a collecting office was established on March 12, 1939 and has been functioning ever since under the pretext that the roadways will be kept in good repair for the rehabilitation of the Nantao Area. All commodities on vehicles entering Nantao from the French Concession are required to pay a rate equivalent to five per cent of their declared value.

On March 16, 1939, Mayor Fu Siao-an, upon learning of this new measure by the Nantao Administrative Office, ordered the collection to cease forthwith on the grounds as no sanction had been given by his office for the collection. It is unlikely, however, that this instruction will be complied with since the Nantao Administrative Office has the support of the Japanese Special Service Section.

On April 13, the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" ordered the second-hand goods hawkers carrying on business on Van Tso Ka, Hou Ka Pang, Zau Ka Road and in the Kwanati Temple in the Nantao Safety Zone to take out licences and to pay monthly fees ranging from $2 to $5. The hawkers object to this imposition, and are requesting the Commission to collect 5% of the profits made every month as licence fees. The Commission refused to entertain the demand and the hawkers ^{declared} a strike. Taking advantage of the suspension of business by the hawkers, the Commission on April 19 issued an order banning the conducting of business on streets and instructing the hawkers to move into houses and to pay a business tax every month ranging from $2 to $6. The order also states that municipal rates equivalent to 10% of the rents of dwelling houses and shop premises will be collected as from April 19, one half of the rates from the owners of property and the other half from the tenants.

Further to Special Branch report dated March 31, 1938 on the above subject, Mr. Sung Sing Fu (沈心橋), chairman of the Shanghai Nantao Traders' Association, was detained on March 30 by Japanese gendarmes for having brought into the Zone copies of the Ta Mei Wan Pao, Chinese edition of the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury, and was released at 11 a.m. April 9 on the recommendation of the "Nantao Autonomous Commission".

Mr. Sung Sing Fu is known to have been hostile towards the "Nantao Autonomous Commission," because the latter organization intended taking over control of the Shanghai Nantao Traders' Association. His resentment against the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" was increased when Mr. Chow Zung Fu (周潤南), a shop proprietor in the Nantao Safety Zone, who acted as vice chairman of the Traders' Association and who is well versed in things Japanese, was appointed chief of the Industrial and Commercial Section of the Autonomous Commission.

Anxious to get rid of him, the Autonomous Commission made the two refugees, who were arrested on March 29 for selling copies of the Ta Mei Wan Pao in the Nantao Safety Zone, sign a false statement implicating Mr. Sung. Before he was allowed his freedom, he gave an undertaking that he would resign from the Traders' Association.

The Shanghai Nantao Traders' Association suspended its operations on April 9, and the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" has not yet decided whether to allow the continuance of the Traders' Association or to incorporate in the Commission.

the Shanghai Nantao Traders' Association (上海南市商界联合会), formerly known as the Nantao Safety Zone Traders' Association (南市难民区商联会), was established on January 20, 1938, with an office at 775 Loo Hsiang Yuan Road, Nantao. After the Japanese military authorities took over control of the Nantao Safety Zone, the Traders' Association was ordered to cease functioning. Petitions were later submitted to the Japanese military and French Concession authorities to permit the Association to resume operations. The request was granted by both these authorities and the Association resumed operations at the beginning of February.

The duty of the Traders' Association is to transport merchandise by hand trolley from rue de la Porte du Nord and to distribute it among various traders located in the Nantao Safety Zone. With a view to preventing the traders from demanding a prohibitive price for their products, the Traders' Association checks the prices of commodities stocked by the traders with those prevailing in the Settlement and the French Concession, and post them in the office of the Association daily for the information of the residents of the Safety Zone.

The Association collects no subscription or initiation fees from members, but charge a transportation fee of .005 of the value of the commodities transported. The Association employs a staff of about thirty persons and its expenses amount to about $600 a month. The income derived in the form of transportation fees ranges between $400 and $500 a month, leaving a deficit of $100 to $200, to the liquidation of which the members equally subscribe.

A "FRIENDLY" ACT

Of late, residents leaving or entering Nantao and Tousewei with their goods have often been molested by Japanese soldiers and sometimes the goods are confiscated. At about 9.25 a.m. yesterday, a similar case took place at the iron gate on Sin Chiao Ka (新橋街) in Nantao. A coolie was carrying one hundred catties of coal briquettes into the Foreign Settlements. This was observed by the Japanese soldiers, who, without saying a word, kicked at the coal briquette baskets and overturned them. The coolie was not allowed to pick up the briquettes. The soldiers, moreover, ground the briquettes to powder under their heels and some even threw the briquettes at the face of the coolie. Eventually the coolie left with baskets empty.

This is another example of the so-called "rapprochement" and "friendliness."

Political Police Bureau bans sale of pro-Chungking newspapers in Nantao - Registration of armed guards in the employ of gambling dens.

With reference to the attached translation of an article entitled "Political Police Bureau Bans Sale of Newspapers Harmful to the Republic : Shops And Amusement Resorts Instructed Not To Advertise In These Newspapers," which appeared in the September 23 issue of the Central China Daily News, enquiries show that the term "newspapers harmful to the Republic" contained in the original text of the article refers to all vernacular newspapers which are anti-Wang Ching Wei in nature.

According to information obtained from a source closely connected with the Political Police Bureau, the latest notification instructing shops and amusement resorts not to advertise in pro-Chungking papers was issued for the purpose of making known the intention of the Bureau to eventually interfere with the operation of the gambling dens in Nantao, while the banning of the sale of pro-Chungking newspapers in Nantao can only be interpreted as a subterfuge on the part of the Bureau, when it is remembered that ever since the occupation of Nantao by the Japanese Army at the end of 1937, such papers have not been allowed to be brought into the area and that the financial position of the shops in Nantao does not warrant the insertion of commercial advertisements in newspapers.

In order to attract patrons to visit their establishments, the gambling dens in Nantao, such as the Si Yuen Gambling Den and the Loh Yuan Gambling Den, have been daily advertising in the columns of pro-Tang newspapers while on occasion they have also advertised in the columns of pro-Chungking newspapers. Since all these gambling dens are operating under the supervision or protection of the Shanghai City Government Police Bureau, the Political Police Bureau has never had any share of revenue from those establishments, hence the notification instructing them not to insert advertisements in pro-Chungking vernacular newspapers, which has been duly complied with.

Apart from issuing the above notification, the Political Police Bureau on September 22nd, also issued instructions to the gambling dens in Nantao, calling for the registration of armed guards in their employ and also of their firearms. It is learned, however, that the dens have thus far ignored these instructions.

Under the supervision of the City Government Police, Chinese coolies in groups of three or five were engaged on March 12 in removing barbed wire barricades and sandbags which were erected at various intersections on the boundaries of the French Concession in Nantao, along Hsin Kuo Road, in order to facilitate communication.

On the same day, a notice was jointly issued in the name of Sung Sze Ching (沈垂景), chief of the Nantao Administrative Office and Okishima (冲岛政一), chief of the Nantao Section of the Special Service Department of the Japanese Military. It states that proprietors of various shops established in Nantao must register their firms with the Nantao Administrative Office from that date, failing which they would be prohibited from conducting business. Details of the procedure concerning the registration, however, is not mentioned in the notice.

Following the opening of the iron gate in Rue Chateau d'Eau on November 11, 1939, people are admitted into Nantao on the strength of Citizens' Certificates issued by the Nantao District Administrative Office. However, only certificates issued prior to October, 1939 are valid while those issued after that date are invariably destroyed by the Japanese sentries and the holders refused entrance into Nantao. The Japanese sentries are taking this action because of a report that the new certificates, of which there is a large number, have been obtained by bribery, at $1.00 or $2.00 for one certificate.

The Nantao District Administrative Office had issued 9,000 certificates up to the end of September, 1939.

Nantao Area Opened By Authorities

Concession Officials Grant
Five Days Test

One of the iron gates separating the French Concession from Nantao which has been closed since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities was re-opened yesterday to traffic thus making it much more convenient for former Nantao residents to return to their homes and also to rehabilitate the Native City which was partially destroyed by the war. Many Chinese re-entered Nantao yesterday through this gate and many others were seen entering into the Concession.

The gate is known as the Hsing Kai Ho near the Small East Gate in Nantao and Rue des deux Republiques in the Concession. Before the gate was re-opened people had to travel to Nantao via Pootung or the Western District. Whether or not the gate will permanently remain open remains to be seen, but it was reported last night that authorities in the Concession had decided to re-open it for five days only as an experiment.

With both French and Chinese police on hand in their respective areas those entering Nantao were required to show their good citizen certificates issued by the Japanese. Formerly, it required also a French Concession pass but commencing yesterday the latter passes might be discarded. While many people, now refugees in foreign areas, want to return to Nantao to visit their houses it is reported that many are looking for chances for establishing gambling houses there.

It will be recalled that Mayor Fu Siao-en of the new Chinese régime in Kiangwan has requested the authorities in the Concession to re-open the iron gates in order to develop Nantao but it could not be ascertained yesterday whether or not the action taken by the French authorities was in accordance with that request.

Nantao Gates Are Opened To New Japanese Controlled Heroin Hells

Drug-Den Keeper Declares Dope Supplied By Japanese

A Chinese, clothed in tatters and lying dead in a deserted, ruined alleyway, with a heap of ashly loss-paper at his head, was pointed to as testimony to the ease with which heroin could be obtained in Nantao today, when a CHINA PRESS representative followed a stream of Chinese snaking into the native city following the opening of French Concession gates yesterday for the first time in two years.

"Too much heroin, too little rice," explained an elderly Chinese, who claimed he had lived in Nantao ever since the hostilities in that area had ended. "About five beggars are found dead in the streets for this reason every day," he added calmly.

The elderly Chinese was, in fact, himself the owner of a heroin den. It was in a small room approached by way of a tortuous dead-end and a swaying stair-case in the half-ruined hovel the man called his home, that THE CHINA PRESS representative saw Chinese smoking white heroin powder dealt out at 10 cents a portion.

Supplied By Japanese
"The Japanese only can import this heroin from Tinghing near Peiping. They make about $2,000 to $3,000 a month. The police ('Ta Tao') keep a list of heroin-houses, and take money from them."

"About 200 of these houses have existed for almost two years," he continued. "Most of them are owned by wealthy Chinese."

Although the population of Nantao was said to have increased by 400 per cent yesterday, the general impression received was that it was still largely deserted.

Desolate Scene

A few main roads are lined by shacks and filled with the throngs and clamor of a Chinese city, a few steps away, roads lead to a land of war's aftermath.

Whole areas that used to be crowded houses with thousands of families, lie in ruins, and the silence is broken only by a lone woman or the grating of a dog burrowing among mounds of tiles.

On the French Concession side of the main Nantao gate there is seething activity from morning to sundown.

In the narrow road leading to the gate industrious Chinese have hastily erected food stalls and primitive tea-houses, and here an old man being carried along in the heavy stream of humanity, with his few belongings on his back, or a wrinkled little woman hugging her frightened daughter behind her, stop to discourse over cups or haggle over the price of a Chinese pancake.

At the end of the road he postulating, shouting, a slowly-moving mass of humanity squeezes itself to pass between barbed-wire barriers, it is let through without question by French Concession police and asked for their passes by "Ta Tao" policemen and Japanese sentries.

Nantao In Ruins

Along the long, wide road that leads into the cobbled streets of Nantao proper, it continues in a long never-ending stream. On the right are the closed, slightly-ruined three-storey houses that are Nantao's skyline. On the left side of the road is French Concession territory, from which they are kept away by French police.

Most of those returning to a war-stricken city carried their property in straw mats or baskets. Almost none made use of waiting rickshaws. All—even the oldest—pushed forward eagerly.

Nantao itself fitted into that strange picture that could be seen in all districts of Shanghai taking on new life after the blow of 1937.

Houses that consisted mainly of broken roofs and cracked walls leaned dangerously over forlorn lanes. Doors were barred or bricked in. Here and there a bearded Chinese sat behind a stall of cigarettes and sweetmeats, and here and there a door slightly ajar revealed people and roosters moving around in an inner courtyard.

Forlorn Remains

To the side of these roads were ruins. A massive, ornate gate was all that was left of a house. Pocked-marked with shell-holes, a skeleton building displayed advertising in flamboyant letters that once were gold. A lone column carried a blue metal disc reading "Public Telephone." In the midst of bricks and tiles where once there must have been a temple, stood an unharmed receptacle for loss. Beside it, his long hair matted and his body dusty grey, a scavenger washed a carrot in a dirty puddle.

Further on, the roads began to take on life. More shops were seen, more people, more open doors. A large shop or two offered meat, food products and even clothing. But both the rickshaws and the increasing traffic of pedestrians were moving in one direction—into the heart of Nantao.

Here the streets had the appearance of a boom town, for it was here, enquiries revealed, that 90 per cent of the thousands who had been flowing in through the Nantao gates were settling. Only people with little or hardly any money at all made their homes among the cutting ruins.

Claimants Clash

Men, women and children milled backwards and forwards, and it was difficult to even pass through some blocks. The impression was that a large colony had descended on a desert city and was hovering anxiously in preparation to settle down.

Here an argument was in furious progress between two families who had apparently claimed an empty shop at the same time. Here a small looming mill twisted cotton into multicolored fiber, and the buzz of the carpenter's saw putting the finishing touches on repair jobs was heard on all sides.

The great majority of the shops, which sold pretty nearly all Chinese commodities from raw meat to torchlights, however, were in operation long before the city gates were thrown open, shop-owners stated. One-fifth of the present swelled population of Nantao had lived there through the two years following the hostilities, they added. Now that prosperity seemed to be back, the shops had stocked themselves with more articles.

Tea House Remains

The world-famed Willow-Pattern Tea House overlooked a stretch of ruins on three sides.

A few Chinese were sipping tea on its bottom floor when THE CHINA PRESS representative visited that ancient building, but the top floor, which throughout the ages served as meeting place for officials, scholars, bon-vivants and curious tourists from abroad, had its entrance barred.

The thousands of small fish which used to inhabit the pond around it have all died, the aged genie of the place complained sorrowfully, and one of the boats, very much like the one the famed Poet Li Po must have used when he was drowned while trying to reach for the moon's reflection in the water, was half-submerged in greenish slime.

A serpentine Chinese stone which, books say, has been a landmark of the tea-house since the Ming Dynasty, rose in majestic loneliness out of twentieth-century shambles.

Only in the large Joss-house where women used to pray for the birth of sons, was the atmosphere of the war pushed out altogether. Miraculously, it had escaped bombs and conflagration completely, and the sound of human voices ring through its courtyards and dim vaulted halls.

During September, 1939, the Nantao Administrative Office, 50 Ih Soh Ka, Nantao, made an attempt to enforce the "Pao Chah" system by issuing new citizens' certificates, while the Japanese military at Nantao suspended the issuing of passes and the Police Bureau in Nantao at the same time stopped the issue of citizens' certificates. But the old certificates issued by the Police Bureau are still in use.

During the morning of October 11, however, the Japanese sentries at Sin Kai Ho (新開河), Nantao, prohibited people from entering or leaving Nantao without producing new citizens' certificates issued by the Nantao Administrative Office. The Japanese sentries at the Nantao Bund took the same action on entrance by the Whangpoo River. As the majority of the people are not in a position to obtain new citizens' certificates, the Japanese military later allowed the people to pass through on the strength of the old certificates but issued a circular to the effect that new certificates obtained before October 26, after which no persons would be allowed to enter or leave Nantao on the old certificates.

The Wen Miao Temple (文廟), also known as the "Mass Education Institute" (民眾教育館), 222 Wen Miao Road, City, entrance to which has been prohibited ever since the Japanese occupation of Nantao at the end of 1937, has been reopened to the public between the hours of 7 a.m. and 5 p.m., daily from July 26, 1939. No admission charge is required.

The temple is now renamed the Confucius Temple (夫子廟) and all images of ancient Chinese saints, sages, philosophers and other men of learning have been carefully preserved but the portraits of the 72 martyrs and those of the famous Chinese military figures and patriots of ancient times have been totally removed. The numerous inscriptions appertaining to the educational principles of the Kuomintang which formerly adorned the premises, have now been either destroyed or removed. The Nantao District Administrative Office has posted all over the place such slogans as "Cease hostilities and advocate peace", "Establish a New Order in the Orient", "Sino-Japanese cooperation", "Down with the Chiang Regime" and "Annihilate the Communist Party".

Old Bomb Explodes in Kiangnan Area

Sensation Created as Many Houses Are Shaken

A terrific explosion of a bomb or mine occurred in Nantao yesterday shortly before 4 p.m., shaking windows of buildings in the French concession near the border of the native city and causing curiosity among many people who bombarded newspaper offices with telephone calls for information. Although it was hard to ascertain the cause of the explosion and the extent of damage done, if any, it was generally believed that it was accidental.

Those who were in offices and many housewives, too, were aroused by the explosion and they exchanged telephone calls telling of what they heard. It was suggested that the Japanese might be engaged in blasting away the boom across the Whangpoo erected by Chinese authorities in Nantao before they withdrew and that the explosion occurred in Lungwa where a Japanese magazine is located.

These reports, however, were later discredited when information gradually leaked out from other sources. Probably the most reliable solution to the mystery could only be offered by the Japanese because the explosion occurred in the occupied area, but at last night's press conference the Japanese spokesman gave no details, belittling its importance, asserting that it might be an explosion of a missile in the industrial section near the former Kiangnan Arsenal.

A Chinese news agency which had made investigation stated last night that the explosion was that of a big bomb left behind by Chinese forces in Nantao. It occurred in Lu Bon Road but no details were given.

Fire Rages in Nantao

A big fire had been burning in Nantao since late yesterday afternoon and it still could be seen late last night. A check with various sources revealed that there was a fire, but none seemed to know where it was and how it started. One Chinese source stated that the conflagration occurred in the Kaochangmiao area in Nantao which was described as an industrial section of the native city by the Japanese spokesman, and if it was true then the fire might have something to do with the explosion which shook the town in the afternoon. The explosion is therefore further mystified by the fire.

At 9 a.m. May 21, three members of the Japanese Special Service Section in Nantao (corner of Boon Lai Road and Ih Soh Ka), accompanied by five Chinese detectives of the Police Bureau of the "Shanghai City Government", proceeded to No.152 Dah Ching Road (大境路), in the Refugee Zone and conducted a search of the house, which was unoccupied, resulting in the unearthing of one revolver, two Mauser pistols and 200 rounds of ammunition. The search party also visited the neighbouring houses, but made no arrests or seizures.

At 8 a.m. May 22, a party of Japanese soldiers, numbering approximately 100, who arrived from Pootung, unearthed a quantity of handgrenades, rifles and pistols from the bed of the Whangpoo River at Nan Moh Deu (南碼頭), Nantao. A bamboo basket and an iron hook, evidently the property of a rag picker, were found on the scene, and from this it would appear that the explosion was caused by a rag picker searching a pile of garbage in which the missile was reposing.

Considering that the situation in Nantao did not warrant the continued existence of the Pacification Section situated at the corner of Moon Lai Road and in Soh Ka, Nantao, the Japanese military authorities ordered its closure on June 13, 1938 and the establishment of a special service section of the Japanese Military Forces for Nantao. The special service section was organized and staffed with the same personnel as the Pacification Section, and commenced to operate on June 13. The special service section will have under its control the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" as did the Pacification Section, leaving the supervision of all Nantao organs attached to the "Shanghai Municipal Administrative Office" in the hands of the Japanese advisors appointed.

The Japanese Forces have taken further districts in the Nantao area into the prohibited area and in consequence refugees sheltering in that areas have been removed and have taken up residence in the Nantao Safety Zone. According to the Nantao Head Office of the International Relief Committee, approximately 23,000 have entered the Nantao Safety Zone and been accommodated in refugee camps established by the Committee. The number of refugees supported by the Committee in the Safety Zone now totals 65,000.

The water supply for residents in the Nantao Safety Zone was restored on June 10, but no electricity is supplied except that to Japanese military establishments.

Subject. Dissension between the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" and the Police Bureau of the "Dah Dao City Government."

Made by D.I. Pan Lien-pih

Forwarded by

C. Crawford D.S.

Dissension now exists between the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" and the Police Bureau of the "Dah Dao City Government" over the question of administrative power.

Recently the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" enforced the registration of families and the obtaining of "law-abiding citizen" certificates by residents. The administration also established a market at West Gate and recruited 2,000 scavengers. A uniformed police force was also formed. These innovations were considered by the Police Bureau of the "Dah Dao City Government" to encroach upon the functions of the Nantao Branch Bureau. A petition requesting the suppression of these reforms by the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" was therefore submitted by the Police Bureau to the "Dah Dao City Government," and a consultation was held between the authorities of the City Government and Mr. Nishimura (~~氏~~), who serves as advisor to the "Dah Dao City Government" and concurrently acts as the sponsor of the "Nantao Autonomous Commission." Mr. Nishimura counselled cooperation between the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" and the "Dah Dao City Government" Police Bureau, but members of the Autonomous Commission refused to agree to a compromise and insisted on being permitted to exercise to the full such powers of administration as are ordinarily vested in an autonomous administration.

Up to the present the dispute remains unsettled.

THE STATUS QUO IN NANTAO

Since the organization of an Autonomous Committee in Nantao on January 11, the Pacification Section of the Japanese Army experienced many difficulties and were kept exceedingly busy.

On November 13, 1937, work was begun on the ruins. Accommodation and food had to be found for refugees. A medical section was formed to co-operate with the medical department of the army. To assure peace in the district a Police Force of 350 men was organized and kept in touch with the Japanese Gendarmes. Thus, an Autonomous Committee was formed in Nantao.

To procure funds the Autonomous Committee commenced a ferry service between Nantao and Pootung. On the first day, January 9, only 15 sen was collected, but on the following day, the takings amounted to Yen 27.34. At present about Yen 300 are taken in daily. It forms a reliable source of revenue to the Committee.

The Autonomous Committee has four departments, namely, the General Affairs Department, the Finance Department, the Rehabilitation Department and the Public Works Department. The Rehabilitation Department deals principally with the cleaning of streets. 500 to 600 coolies are employed daily under the supervision of four Japanese. The Public Works Department issues certificates of Good Citizenship and is responsible for the census. On the first day 133 certificates were issued and 58 families were registered. The following day, 564 certificates were issued and 298 families registered. On the 25th day, 753 certificates were issued and 347 families registered. On the 26th day, so many applicants had called that 15 clerks were unable to dispose of the work. The certificates are issued at a fee of 5 sen each. Thus, a sum of Yen 1,500 monthly is received by the Public Welfare Department.

The General Affairs Department handles proclamations etc. At the request of other departments, the Finance Department distributes money among other departments. Public works such as public rickshas, buses, electric supply and waterworks are now under consideration.

The First Hsi Hua Primary School was established by the Public Welfare Department on February 5 with four teachers.

It is generally believed that Sino-Japanese relations can be improved through the education of the children. A similar school will be opened soon in the refugee zone. All the stationery used by the school children is supplied by the Committee. 90% of the 120 school children attend school regularly. A market has also been established by the Committee. Retail prices are fixed by the Committee.

The establishment of a Citizens Bank is also under consideration by the Committee.

The above is a brief report of the activities undertaken in Nantao. The populace are contented. The intellectual and wealthy Chinese refugees in French Concession or Settlement are returning to their homes in Nantao. One reason of this is probably due to the difficulty of passing from the French Concession into Nantao. Another reason is the damage done to their homes and factories. All former residents of Nantao should return to their old homes immediately and co-operate with the Autonomous Committee in building a prosperous Nantao. The Japanese Military Authorities will protect their life and property.

MANOEUVRES OF THE SETTLEMENT GUARDING UNIT

Large scale manoeuvres will be carried out by the Settlement Guarding Unit, a detachment of the Japanese Naval Landing Party, in Hongkew and Yangtszepoo districts on the early morning of March 5. No restrictions will be placed on traffic whilst the manoeuvres are going on.

RICSHA PULLERS WILL BE ALLOWED IN THE NORTHERN AREA

The Settlement Guarding Unit has decided to permit the operation of ricksha pullers in the area. The Gendarmerie and the Japanese Consular Police are discussing the measures to be adopted. No decision has yet been made officially, for the admittance of a large number of ricksha pullers into the area may affect peace and order in the area. It is reported that the authorities will allow one Japanese and two Formosan ricksha owners to make the necessary preparations, and that a special rate of fares which will have no connection with that of the southern area will be set up.

S.S. "SHANGHAI MARU" ARRIVES HERE ON MARCH 3

The number of persons attached to the "Mobile Police Force" which is under the control of the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" situated at 50 Ih Soh Ka, Boon Lai Road, Nantao, was recently increased to two hundred, and its headquarters removed from the Mohammedan Church on Foh Yeu Road to the premises of the "Nantao Autonomous Commission," 50 Ih Soh Ka, Boon Lai Road. These policemen, who have been chosen from among Nantao refugees and whose duties are to maintain peace and order in the Nantao Safety Zone, are paid no wages but are provided with free board and lodging. Fifty of the 200 members are dressed in uniforms similar to those worn by members of the Police Bureau of the "Dah Dao City Government." The only difference between the uniforms worn by these volunteers and those adopted by the Police Bureau is in the colour of the band around the cap, the colour on the caps of the volunteers being white, while that on the caps of members of the Police Bureau is yellow. Another distinguishing mark on the uniforms of those volunteers is a white strip on the sleeves of their tunics.

On February 23, the "Nantao Autonomous Commission" commenced to issue "law abiding citizen" certificates to residents who possess residence passes. Every resident over the age of 16 is required to apply for a "law abiding citizen" certificate, for which five cents has to be paid and which must be carried on the person. About one hundred and fifty families consisting of 500 persons have applied and obtained these "law abiding citizen" certificates.

On February 24, the Autonomous Commission posted a notice calling for the services of 2,000 person to be employed

Translation of Despatch No. 2 to Council from Shanghai Nantao Self-Government Committee.

Dated 19th January, 1938.

Manifesto: Copy forwarded

When the recent local hostilities spread to Nantao, residents in that district fled in all directions, and they were in a miserable plight. Fortunately, the fighting moved westward, and conditions in this city are gradually being readjusted. It is undesirable for the former business people and residents of Nantao to stay away indefinitely from their business and home. Above all, it is necessary that there should be somebody to maintain peace and good order in that district.

This Committee was established on 11th January. The Chinese and foreign communities should both sympathize with its difficulties. The Council has always been concerned with the situation in Chinese territory. A manifesto issued by the Committee is enclosed herewith. It is hoped that a spirit of friendship and co-operation will develop between the Council and the Committee, and that the said district will be rehabilitated within the shortest time possible.

(Chopped & Signed) Zeng Yu-ning, Chairman,

Nantao Self-Government Committee

Ling Chi-teh, Vice-Chairman

Encl: Manifesto

Translation of enclosure

Manifesto of the Shanghai Nantao
Self-Government Committee.

Shanghai is a big commercial port visited by many sea-going vessels and congested with a large volume of vehicular traffic. Its streets are lined with houses and crowded with businesspeople. Without taking into consideration its foreign population, there are several millions of Chinese who live, move and have their being in this city. A great misfortune has now befallen China.

A disastrous war has reduced to ashes countless human habitations.

Has the innocent people done that they should be deprived of their homes and driven from one place to another? The aged, with nowhere to find shelter, are left to suffer the rigours of weather, while small children are cruelly separated from their parents.

To prevent such refugees from dying of starvation local residents have been obliged to establish camps for them and to devise measures for supplying them with food and clothing. Nevertheless, as the number to be cared for is far in excess of the resources at our command, our heart sinks in contemplating the difficulty of affording adequate relief. Should the present state of affairs continue unchanged and no effort be made to co-ordinate the work of mutual assistance, it will be inconceivable what may happen to public safety. As the stability of a country depends largely on good order among her people, it is impossible to restore normal conditions in this city without first reestablishing peace and order among the local residents.

Moreover, for several thousand years, as history informs us, China has been a nation which prides herself on the propriety and education of her people, which sets a high value on benevolence and righteousness and which prefers the pursuit of peaceful culture to self-aggrandizement through military might. In her administration she showed a preference for the ways of a merciful Emperor to government by force, and she inculcated filial piety and loyalty. These established principles of the ancients have however been totally forgotten in recent times. The more her laws are modernized, the greater become the complication in legislation. The people have no longer any peace and are daily becoming more impoverished.

For the reconstruction and rehabilitation of this city we have undertaken the difficult task of organizing this Committee. Our objects are to remove all prejudices, settle all disputes, restore peace to the survivors of the catastrophe, revive business, promote personal equality and lay the foundation for a lasting peace. It shall be our duty to eradicate all elements tending to jeopardize international unity and to disturb the peace of the people, as well as such evil habits as have been acquired by the citizens. Therefore, we hope farmers will once more be able to till their land, labourers to return to their work, merchants to resume business and students to pursue their studies. The revival of Shanghai will mean also the resurrection of China. All our compatriots please pay attention to this manifesto!

ONOMOUS COMMISSION IN NANTAO

Two months after the occupation of Nantao by Japanese troops, an autonomous commission was established in Nantao yesterday afternoon, with Mr. Chen Yun as chairman. Upper photo shows Mr. Chen making his inaugural address. On his left is an interpreter translating his speech into Japanese. Following the ceremony which was held in a primary school on Fenglai Road, the officials of the commission and Japanese officers were photographed, as shown in the lower photograph. [Domei.]

"Self-Rule" Body Set Up For Nantao

Two months after the occupation of Nantao by Japanese troops to the day, a "so-called autonomous commission" was brought into existence in the Chinese City with a ceremony at the Sicheng Primary School, Fenglai Road, Nantao at 1 p.m. yesterday.

The commission is headed by Mr. Chen Yun, chairman, and Mr. Lung Chi-tan, vice-chairman. In all, there are 13 members of the body.

In a manifesto read at the ceremony, Mr. Chen stated that his "commission" was created "to end privation caused by war."

Details of the ceremony were first reported in Shanghai yesterday through the Japanese press.

Both Chinese connected with the commission, Japanese reports state, have been actively co-operating with the Special Service Section of the Japanese Expeditionary Force here in restoring normal conditions in Nantao ever since the Japanese occupation of the area.

Their first venture, it was stated, was to establish a refugee camp. Later, the two men are said to have assisted Japanese troops in taking over the "administration of the Jacquinet zone."
